

Maps Online

Instantly plot the results of a property search on a detailed community map. Identify flood zones, schools, government facilities, railroads and census data.

Save time using our integrated mapping application

Order a detailed map image just by clicking the MAP IT button next to a property search result. Your subject property is automatically plotted on a street map in a new browser window. You can get started right away because there is no additional software installation or user training required. All you need is a Web browser.

Get a new view of your market

Our advanced mapping application gives you a detailed view of local streets, highways, railroads, airports, schools and government offices. We even outline flood plain areas as defined by the Federal Environmental Management Agency (FEMA). We'll continue to expand the list of available map overlays to provide you even more information.

Customize your map presentation

Change the scale and size of your map image using interactive commands. You can order a free street map that displays town boundaries and waterways, or select the Neighborhood Report for a detailed comprehensive profile. Once you have obtained the results you need, you can print the map or cut and paste it into your report or presentation.

How customers are using our online mapping application

- Appraisers order maps to obtain flood zone references and complete their neighborhood profiles
- Real estate listing agents complement their list packages with maps that identify community resources, such as schools and parks
- Lenders locate individual sales comparables as part of an appraisal review process
- Real estate agents use property and community maps in their open house announcements
